

Community Education Service

Improving emotional health and well being

Putting Stress Under the Microscope: Parenting Stress and Its Relationship to Parenting

Chelsea M. Durber, MSc
PhD Student
School and Clinical Child Psychology, University of Alberta
Child Psychologist Resident at (CAMH) The Centre for Addiction and Mental Health

Parenting is rewarding, but is no easy feat. This presentation will focus on the parenting role and will discuss parenting beliefs, parenting practices, and a specific type of stress, known as parenting stress. New lines of research, children's social and emotional development, and parenting strategies will also be covered, with the overall goal of supporting parents' parenting experiences.

Saturday Feb 6 2021 10 AM

Click here to register

FREE
online event

This session is presented by the Community Education Service of the Child & Adolescent Addiction & Mental Health and Psychiatry Program (CAAMHPP) of Alberta Health Services and the University of Alberta, School and Clinical Child Psychology