Covid-19 has had a significant impact on children and their families' well-being. Gifted children live in the world with intensity and covid-19 has exacerbated that intensity. In this session we will look at:

- * What is the experience of our gifted children in this pandemic?
- * What have we noticed about their behaviour at this time?
- * How has their world responded to this situation?
- * How might we, collectively, support our complex gifted children make sense of and cope with the impact of covid-19 on their lives?

Time will be provided for participant questions.
