Improving emotional health and wellbeing

Navigating Technology with our Youth

*Andrea Halwas Larsen, PhD, CT, REACE
Associate Therapist and Education Coordinator of Juno House*

Thursday Sept 17 2026
12:00 - 1:30 PM

This session is not only about technology's impact on youth, but is also about a child's healthy brain development and the necessary parenting role in creating healthy, emotionally regulated and integrated brains. It will teach the foundation of a child's emotional brain development, how to grow it, and how technology can dangerously hijack it.

This 90-minute session will provide participants with:

- an understanding of the basic neuroscience behind healthy brain development
- the dangers of technology for healthy brain development
- technology use rules to help you and your child manage tech use
- strategies to connect to your child including how to be an emotion coach and build a relationship that can be stronger than their relationship with their tech.
